

Threat Management Course

Training Designed to Manage and Mitigate Would-Be Violent Actors

The Threat Management Course provides organizations with methods for mitigating potential school shooters, mass attackers, cop killers, terrorists and violent extremists. This course uniquely focuses on what can and should be done once you identify a threat before the violence occurs. Most agencies pride themselves on prevention yet, this pre-incident situation often paralyzes police and security agencies. While there is no full proof solution, this course offers an in-depth look at the indicators used to identify potential violent persons and more importantly, the most effective practices for managing or mitigating the risk associated with these individuals.
